the job market is tight, but i don’t think business cards are a reflection of that