the effort is beneficial to the overall health of the community as people who flush prescription drugs down their toilets may inadvertently place the larger community at risk